On July 1st, 2010, compulsory student union membership was abolished for state-owned universities. Jönköping University (JU) is a private institution and are not subject to this law which gave the Foundation board of JU the power to decide to keep the obligatory membership or not.

To ensure a continued and stable student influence at JU the foundation board decided to keep the obligatory membership in the Jönköping Student Union (JSU) for all students at Jönköping University. This is regulated in “Regulations and guidelines for first-, second- and third-cycle education at Jönköping University” (BRJU).

The opinion of JSU is that:
